1. Character sketch

Jyotindra Mohan
Chadhopyay (known as GG Grandpa and Droopy)

Very old lived in the 1930s.
From a well to do educated family in Kolkata India.

Wrote the first Bengali English dictionary and grammar books quite well known and rich. Lived in a big luxurious house.

A big tall sturdy man with spectacles. His face was almost hidden by a long droopy moustache and a white mane of hair and beard but his eyes were bright and shining.

He wore a traditional Bengali dhoti, kurta and a shawl across one shoulder. He had the look and air of a socially responsible person from the pre independence era India.

He liked books, jokes and loved to spend time with children.

2. (Answer is subjective.)

Each generation presents its own problems as far as women and girls are concerned. However, in the 21st century, girls are allowed to study and pursue their careers when they grow up. This was not easily available in the past where women were only required to have basic knowledge of the arts and look after children. The 21st century is good for women and girls but we have a long way to go to say women are free.
